Chelsea have taken Mexican starlet Richard Sanchez on trial.

The 16-year-old goalkeeper caught the eye as Mexico won the Under-17 World Cup last summer.

Out to impress: Mexican goalkeeper Richard Sanchez

And Sanchez, who plays for MLS side FC Dallas, was invited to train with the Blues with view to a summer move.

His agent Marc Salicrú told Goal.com: 'As of now, they see Richard as a goalkeeper with a great future and an interesting profile.

'They'll take a long look at him. A few months.'

Sanchez had a spell in Spain's Atletico Madrid U-16 squad before returning to Texas and joining FC Dallas.

FC Dallas head coach Schellas Hyndman said: 'I think he is by far the best goalkeeper I have ever seen at this age level, and he's shown that during his time as a goalkeeper for Mexico's Under-17 national team.'
